Thomas Miller Investment selects Amundi Technology and its ALTO platform to simplify its operational processes

London and Paris, 14 October 2024 - Thomas Miller Investment (TMI), which manages assets worldwide for a variety of institutional clients, has selected Amundi Technology, a first-class provider of investment management technology and solutions, and its ALTO Investment platform to streamline its operating model and consolidate its investment management systems.

Thanks to ALTO Investment, TMI will benefit from a comprehensive solution covering the entire Frontto-Back value chain. The ALTO platform encompasses a wide range of essential components, including portfolio analysis, data management, trading, cash management, investment compliance, performance contribution, reporting, and attribution. In addition to the functional breadth of ALTO, TMI will benefit from a modular cloud-based system with continuous development and delivery of new features; data connectivity with extensive connections to over 150 data providers; and open APIs for workflow automation, cloud security, and monitoring. With Amundi Technology and the ALTO platform, TMI will have a single solution to manage all daily operations, helping them to achieve operational excellence.

TMI will also leverage Amundi Technology's expertise in Middle Office outsourcing and will be served by a dedicated team within Amundi Technology. Outsourcing Middle Office operations to Amundi Technology will enable TMI to have a greater focus on its core service proposition.

Mark Moran, Chief Operating Officer at Thomas Miller Investment, commented: "We are thrilled to announce the appointment of Amundi Technology as our new SaaS and outsourced middle office provider. This strategic partnership is set to significantly enhance our operational efficiency and deliver superior service to our clients, with faster response times and more comprehensive reporting capabilities.

Amundi's ALTO platform will provide real-time data access, improve workflow automation, and streamline middle office operations. By leveraging Amundi's expertise, we aim to optimise our operational processes, ensuring greater accuracy and efficiency."

Olivier Bouteille, Chief Client Officer at Amundi Technology, "Amundi Technology provides innovative solutions that enhance the operational efficiency of asset servicers and asset managers. We are proud to partner with Thomas Miller Investment and help them deliver an enhanced client experience through the ALTO Investment platform.

This new partnership in the UK further demonstrates our ability to serve a wide range of financial companies through our technology platform, helping them achieve their goals by leveraging the latest innovations.”
