Paris, 5 May 2025 – Amundi will host the next edition of the Amundi World Investment Forum on June 26th and 27th in Paris, one of the must-attend events to decipher major global economic trends and their investment implications.

Shifting balances generate volatility, new risks, but also new investment opportunities, with ongoing rotation across asset classes and geographies. Antony Blinken will focus on the reshaping of international relations, while Enrico Letta and Cecilia Malmstrom will share their vision on how Europe can better capitalize on its many assets to build a prosperous future” said Valérie Baudson, Chief Executive Officer of Amundi.

Entitled “Reboot in Progress”, this edition will address the impact of the new US administration, the levers available to Europe to realize its potential, how new geopolitical power dynamics will affect the growth of emerging countries, the challenges of financing the energy transition, and new models for managing savings and pensions.
